

A STAY IN THE SPREEWALD REGION

A worthwhile location to travel to is the Spreewald biosphere reserve, one of the most natural areas in Germany. The terms "Spree" and "Wald" translate into a wildly growing inland delta with an extensive waterway network. Many creeks and canals wind through meadows, woods as well as farmland and villages.

A common means of transportation on wider creeks and canals has long been a flat wooden boat, which is moved along with a wooden rudder. Get to know a small fraction of this fascinating region.
